Town Center Elementary School Weekly Update

A Message From the Town Center Administration

Dear Town Center Families,

We hope you are doing well and developing a routine that works for your family. The administrative team has been in communication as we continually plan and address topics related to the virtual learning and related issues. The administrative team has also been in communication with teachers and staff members. We would like to provide you with some guidance regarding a few areas related to virtual learning.

- Attendance - If your child is sick while at home, please enter the information into Genesis so we can track how our students are doing while at home. Be reminded that school nurses are monitoring and may reach out to offer assistance as needed.
- School counselors and/or case managers - All staff remain available for families. They will continue to reach out to families with whom they have been closely involved. You may reach out to them if you have specific concerns. Contact information is available on each school's webpage.
- Online Learning - Teachers have and will continue to reach out to their class via Google Classroom, Seesaw and/or email. It is important for your child to engage with the learning opportunities that have been provided. You can determine how many areas to cover each day and what schedule works best for your family. Teachers may reach out to you to assist with your accessibility to remote learning. Continued collaboration between home and school is critical at this time.
- Video Interaction - The online learning may include videos used for instruction. We are not including any type of teacher video chat or live teacher interactions with our students at this point. We are currently utilizing technology that our teachers and students are familiar with and have used in the classroom. We appreciate your patience as we move through this unprecedented experience together.
- Questions or concerns can be emailed to your child's teacher or to the building administrators as appropriate.

- On Friday, the weekly email will continue to be sent out from the district. It is important for you to take the time to read the weekly email as it will have pertinent information as we proceed through the days ahead. This will include district-wide information and grade level updates.
- We just finished a very full and rich remote learning school week and now we enter a relaxing weekend. Classes and teacher communication will resume on Monday as we begin our second remote learning week. Enjoy the weekend.
- Thank you. It is a phrase that we use often, but please take this sentiment as a sincere and heartfelt message from us to you. We know as educators and parents how difficult and uncharted this time can be for adults and children alike. Your support of our children, our teachers, and our community is felt and valued.

Warm regards,

Janet Bowes and Renee Osterbye
