Town Center Elementary School Weekly Update

A Message From the Town Center Administration

Dear Town Center Parents & Guardians,

As we move into May and finish our 6th week of virtual learning, we continue to be reminded of the importance of taking care of ourselves and our families. Besides the disruption in our lives and uncertainty of the future, each of us has our own unique circumstances and challenges which contributes to our stress level. It can be really difficult to try and balance our own job responsibilities with our family responsibilities, including the educational needs of our children.

Now more than ever, it is critical that we model for our children how to be emotionally resilient during this time of uncertainty. The article, Resilience and Routines for Families During the Pandemic, offers some specific suggestions around six basic routines to consider for how to keep ourselves as well as our kids strong. These include focusing on staying resilient, particularly around our physical routines which impact our mental health; creating structure and routine; taking care of our family and our community; staying vigilant with respect to online schooling; staying realistic but reassuring about COVID-19; and considering mindfulness practices. We have included the link to the article above as well as at the end of this letter.

Next week marks National Teacher Appreciation Week, with National Teacher Appreciation Day celebrated on Tuesday, May 5. We would like to take this opportunity to recognize and celebrate our staff for all they have done to teach and support our students since the start of the school year and, particularly, in these past weeks of online learning. Our staff are finding creative ways to connect with their students in order to support them. Besides teaching curricula, they have demonstrated and taught our students important life traits through their actions including kindness, flexibility, resiliency, empathy, optimism, respect and persistence. They are dedicated to our mission and strategic goals, which include a shared focus on student voice and choice, global competency, and social emotional learning. While these goals guide our work and unite our focus, it is their passion and knowledge for teaching and learning that yields the dynamic outcomes for our students. Mark Sanborn offers, "Passion makes the difference between something common and something special." The passion that our WW-P staff brings forward, day in and day out, is truly inspiring. We feel very grateful for all that our staff does every day on behalf of our students, and we thank them for their service.

Finally, next week also marks another special day on Wednesday, May 6 as National School Nurse Day. We would like to take this opportunity to recognize and thank our school nurse for all that she does throughout each day to care for our students, particularly when they aren't feeling well. We appreciate the extra attention and support our nurse offers to our elementary school children when they are sick and sometimes feeling scared. We thank each of our K-5 school nurse's for making their office a place where students come for both band-aids and love.

Please join us in recognizing and celebrating our amazing staff as well as our school nurses next week for all they are doing to support our students.

Warm regards,
Janet Bowes and Renee Osterbye
